MARINES FAIL TO BOTTLE UP GEN. SANDINO

AMERICANS CAPTURE PEAK OF EL CHIPOTE

BOASTED STRENGTH OF REBEL
CHIEF AND FOLLOWERS
VACATED

BELIEVED NOW SANDINO HAS SPLIT FORCE FOR GUERRILLA WARFARE

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 27. — (UP)—The United States marines have captured one of the most difficult peaks in Nicaragua—on which General Augustino Sandino was said to have made his headquarters—without trace of the rebel chieftain.

The forces under the command of Major Young yesterday took over El Chipote, which Sandino's forces said could not be captured, without casualty.

There was no trace of the rebel leader.

For weeks it had been reported that General Sandino had dared American forces to attempt to take El Chipote Hill. It was reported that he would defend it with his entire army and that he would explode 250 tons of dynamite before surrendering the mountain.

Yet when the column from Major Young's battalion advanced upon the hill there were no untoward movements, according to reports to marine headquarters here.

It was believed the rebel general had divided his army into small groups, and had fled into the unexplored hills back of El Chipote.

There were about 400 troops in Major Young's detachment, the reports to marine headquarters said. They had terrible hardships in entering El Chipote but there were no battles accompanying the capture.

Major Young's forces now probably will continue down the other side of El Chipote Hill to meet other detachments which have been around the former rebel leaders headquarters.

SAYS HE HAS CINCH IN GAMBLE WITH AN INSURANCE COMPANY

Salina, Kans., Jan. 27. — (UP)—W. W. Watson, 80, who gambled $100,000 with an insurance company that he would live at least five years more, declares he has a cinch.

Watson gave the insurance company $100,000, with the stipulation that he will receive $1,500 a month for the rest of his life. If he lives five years, he will have original investment returned, and for every day following the five years that he intends to live, he will make a profit of approximately $50.

Watson outlined as follows his mode of living which, he declared, would make him winner over the insurance company.

"I never take my worries to bed with me.

"When I make a business decision I do my best and that ends the matter.

"I take a short nap after lunch every day.

"I sleep out of doors 365 days a year, eat plenty of wholesome food, drink a lot of pure water, and take a certain amount of physical exercise every day.

"Another thing, I have never loafed a day in my life."

WOMAN IS ALMOST INSTANTLY KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE TRUCK

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 27. — (UP)—Mrs. Karen Loberg, 75, was almost instantly killed when she was run down by an automobile truck near her home here Thursday. S. S. Anderson, driver of the truck, was questioned by police.

BLASCO IBANEZ, FAMOUS AUTHOR, DANGEROUSLY ILL

Paris, Jan. 27. — (UP)—Blasco Ibanez, famous Spanish author, today was reported dangerously ill at his home at Montone, on the French Riviera. His son was reported en route by airplane from Valencia.

Senator James Reed, Missouri, Has Hat in Ring

2 HIGH SCHOOL BOYS KILLED AS AIRPLANE CRASHES

McLean, Tex., Jan. 27. — (UP)—Two high school youths were killed near here Thursday when the airplane in which they were passengers crashed.

Donald Moring and William Miller, both 18, were riding with Harold English, Amarillo, Tex., flyer, when the plane went into a nose dive.

English was only slightly injured.

HICKMAN JURY EXPECTED TO BE COMPLETED SOON

11 TEMPORARY JURORS CHOSEN,
PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE
MAY BE EXERCISED

HICKMAN LESS NERVOUS TODAY,
TAKING MORE INTEREST IN PROCEEDINGS

Court Room, Los Angeles, Jan. 27. — Possibility that the jury to hear the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman will be completed before tonight appeared strong as court opened today.

Seven men and four women had been accepted tentatively by the defense before adjournment late yesterday, and today took their places in the jury box.

Judge J. J. Trabucco, presiding at the trial, again admonished attorneys to dispense with unnecessary questioning of talesmen and hasten the proceedings as much as possible.

Hickman, the confessed murderer of 12-year-old Marion Parker, seemed more sure of himself as he was brought into court for today's session.

He did not appear so nervous and gazed more frequently about the courtroom while participants in the legal struggle over selection of a jury to determine his fate were gathered.

While it seemed that the defense was satisfied with those in the jury box before court adjourned Thursday, there was the possibility that all of the talesmen would be removed by the state for cause or by peremptory challenge.

At the opening of court today the state had used one of its 20 peremptory challenges and the defense had used none.

Jerome Walsh, defense counsel, indicated clearly that he was seeking to erase the effects left by countless other murder trials where insanity pleas have saved the slayers from the death penalty, such as the Loeb-Leopold trial and the George Remus case.

"Do you believe an insanity plea is used only as a subterfuge and sham to escape the penalty for crime?" was the question he shot to each prospective juror with never failing regularity.

Walsh entered the court room with more assurance than he had yesterday.

The young lawyer took his seat at the defense table and began discussing plans for the day with his assistant, Richard Cantillon.

CLOQUET MAN WANTS TO BE CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 27. — (UP)—Among requests for places on the South Dakota ballot as candidates for the presidential nomination on the democratic ticket, is that of Alonzo S. Hilton of Cloquet, Minn., it has been announced at the office of the secretary of state.

It was learned here that Hilton is employed as a laborer in a Cloquet lumber mill.

The secretary of state also announced that a candidate for president, under the statutes of this state, must be nominated by a party or file a petition signed by at least five per cent of the party's electors.

DEFINITION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW ON ASYLUMS

CODIFICATION, SAYS CHAS.
EVANS HUGHES

NEED TO STATE EXACT TERMS
OF SAME AT PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

By LOUIS JAY HEATH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Jan. 27.—The Pan-American conference had before it today a clear definition of United States ideas regarding the proper nature of its work in preparing a code of international law.

Included in the definition was a reassertion of the traditional United States policy to decide for itself, in individual cases, the question of sheltering refugees from foreign countries.

Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American delegation, stated the American ideas and policies at a meeting of the international law committee of the conference.

Hughes invited the committee, which is trying to prepare a code of international law, to confine itself to actualities and not to try to read into the international law possibly desirable definitions or amendments which were not included at present.

The statement of United States policy was made regarding a section of a draft code which declared:

"States are forbidden to grant asylum in any part of their jurisdiction to persons suspected of crime or condemned for crime, or to deserters from the army and navy."

Hughes immediately made a reservation on behalf of the United States against that section. It was the historic policy of the United States, he said, not to regard the right of asylum as a matter of international law.

"This view," Hughes said, "has been held tenaciously throughout the diplomatic history of the United States, and our government desires to maintain that position."

The statement constituted a reassertion of a policy the United States has maintained in all its international relations—to make "right of asylum" treaties only with individual nations, and not to recognize a universal definition. The policy was one that resulted in thousands of political refugees, whom the United States held to have been oppressed, being given shelter here in past years. Particularly during the czarist regime in Russia, the United States refused to extradite Russian political refugees as differentiated from what it regarded as ordinary criminals.

Aside from that statement of policy, Hughes' statement was a plea to the conference not to try to make international law but to prepare a plain code-statement of what the law is now. That, he intimated, would be difficult enough and would furnish plenty of argumentative features.

"If we attempt to legislate and to propose the various improvements in the law which we think will be beneficial, we should need a good deal of preparation for the conference which has not been had for this particular enterprise upon which we are engaged."

"It seems to me that all through the discussions of projects submitted by the commission of jurists, we should have constantly in mind our purpose to codify international law. That, of course, does not mean that there are not difficulties of interpretation which may be resolved; that questions may not arise as to which there may be differences of opinion with respect to expression, or even of content, which may be resolved. It does mean, however, that we have the object of stating the law as it is."

*PIC'S ISLAND IN MISSISSIPPI IS BOOTLEGGER HAVEN*

St. Paul, Jan. 27. — (UP)—In a raid early today on Pic's Island, in the Mississippi river, federal prohibition agents confiscated two stills, 2,500 gallons of liquor mash and 120 gallons of the finished product. No arrests were made at the time of the raid.

ANOTHER CONQUEST OF GOOD WILL MADE BY COL. LINDBERGH

CIRCLED FIELD AT CARTAGENA
SEVERAL TIMES TO MAKE SAFE LANDING

TREMENDOUS CROWD ASSEMBLED, GOVERNOR BANQUETS
FLIER

Cartagena, Colombia, Jan. 27. — (UP)—Another conquest of good will has been made by Colonel Chas. A. Lindbergh.

A tremendous crowd had assembled at Boca Grande Field to greet the New York to Paris aviator.

Lindbergh flew over the field shortly after 1:45 P. M. yesterday but the tens of thousands of persons who had gathered made it impossible for him to bring his plane to a safe landing. After he had circled the field several times, much as he did at Le Bourget Field in Paris and Croydon in England, he finally was able to bring the plane down without endangering the lives of any of the spectators.

He was taken into Cartagena. The streets were filled with citizens who continually shouted huzzahs.

Last night he was entertained at a banquet by the governor, after which he attended a ball at the Popa club.

He has been invited to remain here throughout today and leave on Saturday for Bogota. His original plans called for him to leave today for Bogota.

LINDBERGH'S DANGEROUS FLIGHT TO BOGOTA TODAY

Cartagena, Colombia, Jan. 27. — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left for Bogota, the capital, at 9 A. M. today after a one-day visit here.

Col. Lindbergh expected to reach Bogota around 3 P. M., after a flight across the states of Bolivar and Antioquia.

The flight was a dangerous one. Lindbergh's course was expected to be along the Magdalena river, and then across the central range of the Andes Mountains—frequently obscured by haze. A few months ago an American oil man was killed when he crashed into a mountainside which he could not see. Only one man has made the Cartagena-Bogota flight—Knox Martin, an American.

PRES. COSGRAVE AND PARTY LEAVE FOR PHILADELPHIA

Washington, Jan. 27. — (UP)—President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State and his party left at 9 A. M., today for Philadelphia after a four-day visit in the capital.

and not the object of stating what we know is not the law, but what we think might be made the law by some method of international agreement."

Referring back to his reservation on the principle of asylum Hughes said:

"With the commission dealing with private international law or what we call 'conflict of law,' the desire is to bring uniformity where there is recognized diversity."

ST. PAUL DAILY NEWS PUBLISHES STORY TODAY

BURDEN OF REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON AND VARIOUS
PARTS OF MINNESOTA

3 REASONS CITED AS CONCLUSIONS OF PROPOSED STEP
OF THE SENATOR

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27. — (UP)—Senator Henrik Shipstead may seek re-election as an independent, not on the farmer-labor ticket, the St. Paul Daily News said today.

That Minnesota's senior senator is being urged to take the independent route toward a second term in Washington is the burden of reports from Washington and various parts of Minnesota.

Some significance is attached to these reports for at least three reasons, the News went on to say.

"They are: "That Senator Shipstead was a republican prior to 1920 and may want to return to his old party, realizing that the third party movement in Minnesota is ebbing rapidly.

"That filing as an independent is a natural step in this direction and will also act as a 'sop' to those republicans who are inclined to support him for re-election.

"That such a course will not affect his relations or standing in the U. S. senate, where he is now the only farmer-labor member, nor alienate his farmer-labor support to any appreciable extent.

It is currently reported that several farmer-labor leaders are ready to acquiesce in such a decision by Shipstead, although others still insist that if he files either as an independent or as a republican, the farmer-labor party will nominate its own candidate, the News continued.

"From sources close to the senior senator, however, it is learned that he has never seriously considered filing for the republican nomination, but that he is now trying to get the 'reaction' on the proposal to run independently," the article said.

NO EVIDENCE OF CRIME DISCLOSED SAY AUTHORITIES

Washington, Jan. 27. — (UP)—U. S. Attorney Peyton Gordon decided today after investigation, to ignore reports that a pretty young woman defense witness in the Sinclair-Burns contempt case had been slugged and robbed in her hotel room here.

Investigation by Gordon and police disclosed no evidence of a crime, Gordon said, despite the statement of William Lantz that his wife, Jeannette, 21, was beaten, bound and gagged Wednesday night.

The report of Detective William J. Burns that his rooms, and those of many of his operatives have been rifled was not officially communicated to authorities and no action is planned in this connection by the police.

Gordon said he would not be "side-tracked" from the contempt trial, now in its seventh week, by any of the sensational new reports. He declined to discuss suggestions that the "assault" may have been a "frameup."

WOMAN WINS OLD CLAIM FOR WAGES

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 27. — (UP)—A claim for wages, said to have been earned more than 26 years ago, was partially paid today after a jury in Clay county district court awarded a verdict for $4,005.71 to Helen Berg of Perle, in a suit against H. Richards, farmer, of that vicinity.

2 WOMEN FRIENDS CHOKE 15 YEAR OLD HIGH SCHOOL GIRL

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 27. — (UP)—Two women friends who choked a 15-year-old high school girl Thursday night and threw acid in her face were being hunted today by Tulsa officers.

The women were well dressed, Geraldine Bergman, victim of the attack, told police. Physicians are trying to prevent injury to the girl's eyesight.

GREAT NORTHERN IN EXTENSION OF ITS SERVICE

PERMITTED TO SUBSTITUTE IT-
SELF FOR THE OREGON
TRUNK LINE RY.

CONSTRUCTING AND OPERATING
LINE BETWEEN BEND AND
KLAMATH FALLS, ORE.

Washington, Jan. 27. — (UP)—The Great Northern railway was authorized by the interstate commerce commission today to substitute itself for the Oregon Trunk Line railway in constructing and operating a line between Bend and Klamath Falls, Ore. A previous order in favor of the Oregon Trunk Line was revoked and the Great Northern was named instead.

The Great Northern was also authorized in the order to operate over the lines of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway Company, the Oregon Trunk Line railway and the Deschutes railroad, in Washington and Oregon.

It was granted authority to acquire an undivided three-fourths interest in the railroad properties of Shevlin-Hixon Company, extending southerly from Bend, Ore., and to operate over the Southern Pacific's line between Chemult and Klamath Falls.

The order also authorized the Great Northern to acquire joint control with the Southern Pacific of the Oregon, California and Eastern railway by purchase of capital stock.

The order closed a protracted controversy between the Great Northern and Southern Pacific railroads over the right of the former to extend into the rich timber-bearing Klamath Falls basin. It permits the Great Northern, rather than its subsidiary Oregon trunk line, to reach Klamath Falls, and gives it an equal share with the Southern Pacific in the traffic moving eastward from that point.

COLD WEATHER NESTLES OVER ALL NORTHWEST

Some of the coldest weather in the United States today nestled over Minnesota and the northwest.

Temperatures ranging from 14 below zero at International Falls and Duluth, eight below at Moorhead and 6 below at St. Paul were recorded.

Other readings in the northwest early today were: Bismarck, 4 above; Calgary, 8 above; Huron, 6 above; Medicine Hat, 4 above; Milwaukee, 10 above; and Winnipeg, 12 above.

Fair weather with slowly rising temperatures are predicted for tonight and Saturday. Shippers were advised to protect against temperatures from zero to 10 above at St. Paul.

STINSON AND THREE PASSENGERS NOW 12 HOURS OVERDUE

Chicago, Jan. 27. — (UP)—Eddie Stinson and three passengers who left Tampa, Fla., for Chicago yesterday in a Stinson-Detroit airplane were more than 12 hours overdue this morning.

No word had been received from the fliers since they left Tampa, officials at the city airport, where the plane was expected to land, reported.

AFTER DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

WILL NOT PURSUE PASSIVE
COURSE, EXPECTING TO FALL
HEIR TO SMITH STRENGTH

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS IN-
FORMED REED WILL FIGHT
FOR HIMSELF

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Jan. 27. — Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is out to make a real fight for the democratic presidential nomination.

He will not pursue a passive course in hopes that Governor Al Smith's strength might eventually pass in part to him should Smith fail, but he is going to fight for himself, it was learned today after national headquarters had been formally opened for him here.

Arrangements already have been made for several southern states to select him as second choice to their favorite sons and he is going into the south to make speeches soon. One engagement already has been made for him at Raleigh, S. C.

Reed's friends really think he has a good chance. They are not so sure that smith will go into a convention fight. They say they think he may retire if the situation does not look inviting in June. Reed, they believe, is the logical man to succeed to the position Smith dominates in the party. And they want to place Reed in a position where he can assume the party reins should the opportunity present itself.

Reed's campaign will be conducted on old-fashioned Jacksonian principles. His slogan will be: "Throw the rascals out," the same that Andrew Jackson used. While he is classed as a wet, prohibition will not be stressed as an issue of his, and enforcement will be promised.

Reed has been holding off for fear that he might arouse some of Smith's supporters. Now his friends say he will go into every state primary where no favorite sons are entered. He has said nothing himself as to whether he will be a candidate but opening of the headquarters here was arranged with his consent, and party leaders generally have expected his candidacy.

B. G. DAWES ASKED TO TESTIFY IN THE TEAPOT DOME HEARING

Washington, Jan. 27. — (UP)—B. G. Dawes, brother of Vice President Dawes and chairman of the Pure Oil Company, Columbus, O., is among new witnesses subpoenaed for reopening of the Teapot Dome hearings Tuesday, it was announced today.

The Pure Oil Co. purchased one of the oil concerns involved in the Continental Trading Co. deal, the subject of the present inquiry, committee members have been informed. They desire to learn from Dawes whether the books of the purchased company indicated the Continental deal was legitimate.

Mexican Government's Drive Against Any Religious Propaganda

Mexico City, Jan. 27. — (UP)—The government's drive against religious propaganda in the last three days has resulted in the arrest of between 250 and 300 priests, nuns and pupils. It was learned today.

Raids were made on four schools and it was charged a large amount of seditious propaganda and religious emblems were seized.

Among the schools raided was the Josephine convent in the heart of the business section of the city. Stones were thrown through the windows of the important hotels and the main American restaurant reported several of its windows were broken out by stones.

Two hundred security agents and 100 mounted police early yesterday raided the Regina seminary.

Havana, Jan. 27. — The Pan-American conference had before it today a clear definition of United States ideas regarding the proper nature of its work in preparing a code of international law.

Included in the definition was a reassertion of the traditional United States policy to decide for itself, in individual cases, the question of sheltering refugees from foreign countries.

ST. PAUL DAILY NEWS PUBLISHES STORY TODAY

BURDEN OF REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON AND VARIOUS
PARTS OF MINNESOTA

3 REASONS CITED AS CONCLUSIONS OF PROPOSED STEP
OF THE SENATOR

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27. — (UP)—Senator Henrik Shipstead may seek re-election as an independent, not on the farmer-labor ticket, the St. Paul Daily News said today.

That Minnesota's senior senator is being urged to take the independent route toward a second term in Washington is the burden of reports from Washington and various parts of Minnesota.

Some significance is attached to these reports for at least three reasons, the News went on to say.

"They are: "That Senator Shipstead was a republican prior to 1920 and may want to return to his old party, realizing that the third party movement in Minnesota is ebbing rapidly.

"That filing as an independent is a natural step in this direction and will also act as a 'sop' to those republicans who are inclined to support him for re-election.

"That such a course will not affect his relations or standing in the U. S. senate, where he is now the only farmer-labor member, nor alienate his farmer-labor support to any appreciable extent.

It is currently reported that several farmer-labor leaders are ready to acquiesce in such a decision by Shipstead, although others still insist that if he files either as an independent or as a republican, the farmer-labor party will nominate its own candidate, the News continued.

"From sources close to the senior senator, however, it is learned that he has never seriously considered filing for the republican nomination, but that he is now trying to get the 'reaction' on the proposal to run independently," the article said.

NO EVIDENCE OF CRIME DISCLOSED SAY AUTHORITIES

Washington, Jan. 27. — (UP)—U. S. Attorney Peyton Gordon decided today after investigation, to ignore reports that a pretty young woman defense witness in the Sinclair-Burns contempt case had been slugged and robbed in her hotel room here.

Investigation by Gordon and police disclosed no evidence of a crime, Gordon said, despite the statement of William Lantz that his wife, Jeannette, 21, was beaten, bound and gagged Wednesday night.

The report of Detective William J. Burns that his rooms, and those of many of his operatives have been rifled was not officially communicated to authorities and no action is planned in this connection by the police.

Gordon said he would not be "side-tracked" from the contempt trial, now in its seventh week, by any of the sensational new reports. He declined to discuss suggestions that the "assault" may have been a "frameup."

WOMAN WINS OLD CLAIM FOR WAGES

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 27. — (UP)—A claim for wages, said to have been earned more than 26 years ago, was partially paid today after a jury in Clay county district court awarded a verdict for $4,005.71 to Helen Berg of Perle, in a suit against H. Richards, farmer, of that vicinity.

2 WOMEN FRIENDS CHOKED 15 YEAR OLD HIGH SCHOOL GIRL

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 27. — (UP)—Two women friends who choked a 15-year-old high school girl Thursday night and threw acid in her face were being hunted today by Tulsa officers.

The women were well dressed, Geraldine Bergman, victim of the attack, told police. Physicians are trying to prevent injury to the girl's eyesight.

GREAT NORTHERN IN EXTENSION OF ITS SERVICE

PERMITTED TO SUBSTITUTE IT-
SELF FOR THE OREGON
TRUNK LINE RY.

CONSTRUCTING AND OPERATING
LINE BETWEEN BEND AND
KLAMATH FALLS, ORE.

Washington, Jan. 27. — (UP)—The Great Northern railway was authorized by the interstate commerce commission today to substitute itself for the Oregon Trunk Line railway in constructing and operating a line between Bend and Klamath Falls, Ore. A previous order in favor of the Oregon Trunk Line was revoked and the Great Northern was named instead.

The Great Northern was also authorized in the order to operate over the lines of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway Company, the Oregon Trunk Line railway and the Deschutes railroad, in Washington and Oregon.

It was granted authority to acquire an undivided three-fourths interest in the railroad properties of Shevlin-Hixon Company, extending southerly from Bend, Ore., and to operate over the Southern Pacific line between Chemult and Klamath Falls.

The order also authorized the Great Northern to acquire joint control with the Southern Pacific of the Oregon, California and Eastern railway by purchase of capital stock.

The order closed a protracted controversy between the Great Northern and Southern Pacific railroads over the right of the former to extend into the rich timber-bearing Klamath Falls basin. It permits the Great Northern, rather than its subsidiary Oregon trunk line, to reach Klamath Falls, and gives it an equal share with the Southern Pacific in the traffic moving eastward from that point.

COLD WEATHER NESTLES OVER ALL NORTHWEST

Some of the coldest weather in the United States today nestled over Minnesota and the northwest.

Temperatures ranging from 14 below zero at International Falls and Duluth, eight below at Moorhead and 6 below at St. Paul were recorded.

Other readings in the northwest early today were: Bismarck, 4 above; Calgary, 8 above; Huron, 6 above; Medicine Hat, 4 above; Milwaukee, 10 above, and Winnipeg, 12 above.

Fair weather with slowly rising temperatures are predicted for tonight and Saturday. Shippers were advised to protect against temperatures from zero to 10 above at St. Paul.

STINSON AND THREE PASSENGERS NOW 12 HOURS OVERDUE

Chicago, Jan. 27. — (UP)—Eddie Stinson and three passengers who left Tampa, Fla., for Chicago yesterday in a Stinson-Detroit airplane were more than 12 hours overdue this morning.

No word had been received from the fliers since they left Tampa, officials at the city airport, where the plane was expected to land, reported.

AFTER DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

WILL NOT PURSUE PASSIVE
COURSE, EXPECTING TO FALL
HEIR TO SMITH STRENGTH

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS IN-
FORMED REED WILL FIGHT
FOR HIMSELF

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Jan. 27. — Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is out to make a real fight for the democratic presidential nomination.

He will not pursue a passive course in hopes that Governor Al Smith's strength might eventually pass in part to him should Smith fall, but he is going to fight for himself, it was learned today after national headquarters had been formally opened for him here.

Arrangements already have been made for several southern states to select him as second choice to their favorite son, and he is going into the south to make speeches soon. One engagement already has been made for him at Raleigh, S. C.

Reed's friends really think he has a good chance. They are not so sure that Smith will go into a convention fight. They say they think he may retire if the situation does not look inviting in June. Reed, they believe, is the logical man to succeed to the position Smith dominates in the party. And they want to place Reed in a position where he can assume the party reins should the opportunity present itself.

Reed's campaign will be conducted on old-fashioned Jacksonian principles. His slogan will be: "Throw the rascals out," the same that Andrew Jackson used. While he is classed as a wet, prohibition will not be stressed as an issue of his, and enforcement will be promised.

Reed has been holding off for fear that he might arouse some of Smith's supporters. Now his friends say he will go into every state primary where no favorite sons are entered. He has said nothing himself as to whether he will be a candidate but opening of the headquarters here was arranged with his consent, and party leaders generally have been expected his candidacy.

B. G. DAWES ASKED TO TESTIFY IN THE TEAPOT DOME HEARING

Washington, Jan. 27. — (UP)—B. G. Dawes, brother of Vice President Dawes and chairman of the Pure Oil Company, Columbus, O., is among new witnesses subpoenaed for reopening of the Teapot Dome hearings Tuesday. It was announced today.

The Pure Oil Co. purchased one of the oil concerns involved in the Continental Trading Co. deal, the subject of the present inquiry, committee members have been informed. They desire to learn from Dawes whether the books of the purchased company indicated the Continental deal was legitimate.

Mexican Government's Drive Against Any Religious Propaganda

Mexico City, Jan. 27. — (UP)—The government's drive against religious propaganda in the last three days has resulted in the arrest of between 250 and 300 priests, nuns and pupils it was learned today.

Raids were made on four schools and it was charged a large amount of seditious propaganda and religious emblems were seized.

Among the schools raided was the Josephine convent in the heart of the business section of the city. Stones were thrown through the windows of the important hotels and the main American restaurant reported several of its windows were broken out by stones.

Two hundred security agents and 100 mounted police early yesterday raided the Regina seminary.

Chesebrough-Clement

Miss Armilla Goodwin Clement, daughter of Mrs. Fremont Sylvester Clement, formerly of Minneapolis, became the brides of John Latimer Chesebrough of Brainerd, Minn., yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pierce Stacy (Miriam Thompson), 4701 Girard Avenue South. Dr. David Bryn-Jones read the service at 4 P. M. before the fireplace, which was banked by cybotium ferns, palms and candle to form an improvised altar. Only immediate relatives and intimate friends had been invited.

The bride who was given in marriage by Harry L. Turner, a boyhood friend of her father, wore a gown of powder blue lace and carried orchids, butterfly roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Edwin Pierce Stacy, her only attendant, gown in black lace over peach pink chiffon and her flowers were butterfly roses and sweet peas. T. I. Roser Chesebrough was his brother's best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. Tea, roses, pink and white larkspur, buddelia and tapers were used in the dining room. After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Chesebrough will be at home March 1, at the Ransford hotel, Brainerd, Minn. Mrs. Chesebrough attended Sweet Briar college and the University of Minnesota and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Chesebrough is a graduate of St. John's Military Academy, Delaware, Wis., and attended the University of Minnesota. — Minneapolis Journal.

GOOD ATTENDANCE RECORD

Sunday School of Swedish Bethany Church Has High Average

Last Sunday

The Sunday school of the Swedish Bethany church had a very good attendance record at their school last Sunday, when the attendance average was 96 percent of the enrollment. In addition there were three visitors present. All the teachers of the school were present and four classes had perfect records. The enrollment of the school is very near the hundred mark and they hope to reach that goal soon, the aim of the school is to have a regular attendance of the member rather than a large enrollment. Anyone, young or old, not attending another Sunday school now is cordially invited to visit the school any time and if they desire to become regular attendant.

AUTHORITIES HAVE NO
CLUE IN SEARCH FOR
MISSING COLLEGIAN

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 27. — Authorities today still were without a clue as to the whereabouts of Frances St. John Smith, freshman at Smith College, who disappeared Jan. 13, despite the fact that a ransom note had been answered.

Police answered a letter asking that $12,000 be placed at the foot of a stairway at a Springfield department store. The package—without the $12,000—was placed at the stairway and a careful watch kept, but no one appeared.

There continued a constant stream of reports that the girl had been seen today. From Olive Hill, Ky., came a report that a girl answering the description of Miss Smith had been arrested there with a youth. The girl gave the name of Martha Michel.

The girl said she was from Queens Village. Reports from that city said that the girl's father had admitted the girl was missing from her home and had been missing since last October.

Miss Armilla Goodwin Clement, daughter of Mrs. Fremont Sylvester Clement, formerly of Minneapolis, became the bride of John Latimer Chesbrough of Brainerd, Minn., yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pierce Stacy (Miriam Thompson), 4701 Girard Avenue South. Dr. David Bryn-Jones read the service at 4 P. M. before the fireplace, which was banked by cybotium ferns, palms and candle to form an improvised altar. Only immediate relatives and intimate friends had been invited.

The bride who was given in marriage by Harry L. Turner, a boyhood friend of her father, wore a gown of powder blue lace and carried orchids, butterfly roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Edwin Pierce Stacy, her only attendant, gown in black lace over peach pink chiffon and her flowers were butterfly roses and sweet peas. T. I. Roser Chesbrough was his brother's best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. Tea roses, pink and white larkspur, buddella and tapers were used in the dining room. After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Chesbrough will be at home March 1, at the Ransford hotel, Brainerd, Minn. Mrs. Chesbrough attended Sweet Briar college and the University of Minnesota and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Chesbrough is a graduate of St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis., and attended the University of Minnesota. — Minneapolis Journal.

GOOD ATTENDANCE RECORD

Sunday School of Swedish Bethany Church Has High Average

Last Sunday

The Sunday school of the Swedish Bethany church had a very good attendance record at their school last Sunday, when the attendance average was 96 percent of the enrollment. In addition there were three visitors present. All the teachers of the school were present and four classes had perfect records. The enrollment of the school is very near the hundred mark and they hope to reach that goal soon, the aim of the school is to have a regular attendance of the member rather than a large enrollment. Anyone, young or old, not attending another Sunday school now is cordially invited to visit the school any time and if they desire to become regular attendants.

AUTHORITIES HAVE NO
CLUE IN SEARCH FOR
MISSING COLLEGIAN

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 27. — Authorities today still were without a clue as to the whereabouts of Frances St. John Smith, freshman at Smith College, who disappeared Jan. 13, despite the fact that a ransom note had been answered.

Police answered a letter asking that $12,000 be placed at the foot of a stairway at a Springfield department store. The package—without the $12,000—was placed at the stairway and a careful watch kept, but no one appeared.

There continued a constant stream of reports that the girl had been seen today. From Olive Hill, Ky., came a report that a girl answering the description of Miss Smith had been arrested there with a youth. The girl gave the name of Martha Michel.

The girl said she was from Queens Village. Reports from that city said that the girl's father had admitted the girl was missing from her home and had been missing since last October.

J. J. K. EXPOUNDS WOLF THEORIES

Writes Opinions on Ferocity of Timber Prowlers in The Prison Mirror

Individual Wolf a Coward But Gains Courage With Numbers When Hungry

Mr. J. J. K., a Stillwater inmate writes an interesting account of his experiences with wolves in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin in response to the Brainerd Dispatch's query for wolf stories regarding ferocity of wolves.

Mr. J. J. K. replies to the query in The Prison Mirror, prison publication. The Brainerd Dispatch is one of the popular newspapers of the state having a wide circulation in the institution.

The story follows:

I noticed a piece in the Brainerd paper, in which the editor wanted to know if a wolf was a coward and would he tackle a man.

Now, I have put in thirty years of my life in the northern part of Wisconsin and Minnesota and have seen some wolves, and I would say that the individual wolf is a coward and would never tackle a man; but he is an animal that gains courage with numbers and a number of wolves will tackle a man if they are hungry. At least, that has been my experience.

But now you see, I am not a story-writer, for my gift of imagination is so small that it would take ten thousand of them on a glass plate to make a flyspeck. So all I can do is to give you the plain facts as I know them.

The winter of 1895, I was in a logging camp forty-five miles north of Tomahawk, Wis. I was hauling logs and we would leave camp before daylight. It was three miles to the river, and then we drove down river a mile to unload.

One morning about the middle of January, I was the last man to leave camp. It was cold and snappy that morning, so when I got to the river I tied up the lines and jumped off to walk behind the load.

I hadn't gone but a few rods when I heard something behind me, and looking around, there was a big wolf about thirty feet from me in the road. When I stopped, he stopped, and when I went on he would follow; but he wouldn't come any closer. He followed me clear to the landing; but when I started to unload, he beat it into the woods. He was hungry, all right, but he didn't have nerve enough to tackle me for his breakfast.

About three miles from the camp up river there was a small bunch of pine, and along about the first of February the boss said to Tom Murphy, "You go over to that bunch of pine and blaze out a road to the river and I will have it cleaned out so I can have the logs skidded to the river. It is only a little way and you go straight across and you can get back by noon."

Well, Tom took his snowshoes and left camp in the morning when we did. And when I came back to the camp that night at about four o'clock, the boys came out of the office and asked me if I had seen Tom. I said that I had not. Then the boss said, "Hurry and put your horses up, and we will go and see if we can find him."

So I put the team in the stable and went to the office, and the boss had two pairs of snowshoes ready, and two lanterns. It was getting dark in the woods by that time, so we lit the lanterns. We put on the snowshoes, and started out in the woods on the trail that Tom had made that morning.

We hustled right along for about a mile and a half. Then we stopped and called, but we couldn't get any answer. We went on for about a quarter of a mile and stopped and called again, and that time we heard him answer. It sounded a long way off, but we hadn't gone only a little way when we came out on a little knoll with no timber except two or three scrubby pines with their limbs almost to the ground.

Here we held up our lanterns to look around and we saw three wolves going for the timber. Then the boss called again, and Tom said, "Here," and there he was up one of the scrub pines!

He said he had been there since eleven o'clock, and it was nearly six when we found him. He said that there were nine of the wolves and that they had followed him quite a while and that when he got to the knoll they had closed in on him and he had had to go up the tree. He had kept himself from freezing by climbing about in the treetop and cutting off pieces of limbs to throw at the wolves to try to scare them away. He was hoarse from holler-

CHEVROLET MAN TO LEAVE FOR SWEDEN

H. G. Johnson Former Sales Representative Receives Promotion

J. R. Bissoniere Formerly of Minneapolis Named Successor

Announcement of a change in the position of sales representatives for this district by the Chevrolet Motor Company was made here today with the statement that H. G. Johnson, who represented the company from Brainerd to International Falls had been promoted to have charge of sales in Sweden, with headquarters at Stockholm.

Mr. Johnson will leave within a few days for the east where he will receive final instructions before taking his new post. His past ability to lead the entire zone in sales was responsible for his promotion. The fact that he has mastered the Scandinavian language besides knowing the French language was another factor in his favor for the position. Mr. Johnson was wounded during the World war at Chateau Thierry when he was a duty sergeant of E. Battery of the 151st in the Rainbow division. He was one of the few Minnesota boys honored with the Croix du Guerre and Distinguished Service Cross.

J. R. Bissoniere formerly of Minneapolis has been named to succeed Mr. Johnson in this district. He is a former Minnesota football star and played on the famous 1912-1913 Point-a-Minute team. He coached the crack Macalester team of 1921. Mr. and Mrs. Bissoniere have taken apartments in the Anna block.

ing, but outside of being cold and numb he wasn't hurt.

So I say, get enough wolves together and they will tackle a man.

J. J. K. EXPOUNDS WOLF THEORIES

Writes Opinions on Ferocity of Timber Prowlers in The Prison Mirror

Individual Wolf a Coward But Gains Courage With Numbers When Hungry

Mr. J. J. K., a Stillwater inmate writes an interesting account of his experiences with wolves in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin in response to the Brainerd Dispatch's query for wolf stories regarding ferocity of wolves.

Mr. J. J. K. replies to the query in The Prison Mirror, prison publication. The Brainerd Dispatch is one of the popular newspapers of the state having a wide circulation in the institution.

The story follows:

I noticed a piece in the Brainerd paper, in which the editor wanted to know if a wolf was a coward and would he tackle a man.

Now, I have put in thirty years of my life in the northern part of Wisconsin and Minnesota and have seen some wolves, and I would say that the individual wolf is a coward and would never tackle a man; but he is an animal that gains courage with numbers and a number of wolves will tackle a man if they are hungry. At least, that has been my experience.

But now you see, I am not a story-writer, for my gift of imagination is so small that it would take ten thousand of them on a glass plate to make a flyspeck. So all I can do is to give you the plain facts as I know them.

The winter of 1895, I was in a logging camp forty-five miles north of Tomahawk, Wis. I was hauling logs and we would leave camp before daylight. It was three miles to the river, and then we drove down river a mile to unload.

One morning about the middle of January, I was the last man to leave camp. It was cold and snappy that morning, so when I got to the river I tied up the lines and jumped off to walk behind the load.

I hadn't gone but a few rods when I heard something behind me, and looking around, there was a big wolf about thirty feet from me in the road. When I stopped, he stopped, and when I went on he would follow; but he wouldn't come any closer. He followed me clear to the landing; but when I started to unload, he beat it into the woods. He was hungry, all right, but he didn't have nerve enough to tackle me for his breakfast.

About three miles from the camp up river there was a small bunch of pine, and along about the first of February the boss said to Tom Murphy, "You go over to that bunch of pine and blaze out a road to the river and I will have it cleaned out so I can have the logs skidded to the river. It is only a little way and you go straight across and you can get back by noon."

Well, Tom took his snowshoes and left camp in the morning when we did. And when I came back to the camp that night at about four o'clock, the boys came out of the office and asked me if I had seen Tom. I said that I had not. Then the boss said, "Hurry and put your horses up, and we will go and see if we can find him."

So I put the team in the stable and went to the office, and the boss had two pairs of snowshoes ready, and two lanterns. It was getting dark in the woods by that time, so we lit the lanterns. We put on the snowshoes, and started out in the woods on the trail that Tom had made that morning.

We hustled right along for about a mile and a half. Then we stopped and called, but we couldn't get any answer. We went on for about a quarter of a mile and stopped and called again, and that time we heard him answer. It sounded a long way off, but we hadn't gone only a little way when we came out on a little knoll with no timber except two or three scrubby pines with their limbs almost to the ground.

Here we held up our lanterns to look around and we saw three wolves going for the timber. Then the boss called again, and Tom said, "Here," and there he was up one of the scrub pine!

He said he had been there since eleven o'clock, and it was nearly six when we found him. He said that there were nine of the wolves and that they had followed him quite a while and that when he got to the knoll they had closed in on him and he had had to go up the tree. He had kept himself from freezing by climbing about in the treetop and cutting off pieces of limbs to throw at the wolves to try to scare them away. He was hoarse from holler-

H. G. Johnson Former Sales Representative Receives Promotion

J. R. Bissoniere Formerly of Minneapolis Named Successor

Announcement of a change in the position of sales representatives for this district by the Chevrolet Motor Company was made here today with the statement that H. G. Johnson, who represented the company from Brainerd to International Falls had been promoted to have charge of sales in Sweden, with headquarters at Stockholm.

Mr. Johnson will leave within a few days for the east where he will receive final instructions before taking his new post. His past ability to lead the entire zone in sales was responsible for his promotion. The fact that he has mastered the Scandinavian language besides knowing the French language was another factor in his favor for the position. Mr. Johnson was wounded during the World war at Chateau Thierry when he was a duty sergeant of E. Battery of the 151st in the Rainbow division. He was one of the few Minnesota boys honored with the Croix du Guerre and Distinguished Service Cross.

J. R. Bissoniere formerly of Minneapolis has been named to succeed Mr. Johnson in this district. He is a former Minnesota football star and played on the famous 1912-1913 Point-a-Minute team. He coached the crack Macalester team of 1921. Mr. and Mrs. Bissoniere have taken apartments in the Anna block.

TAXING STATE LANDS PROPOSED

TAXATION of state lands which are not used for public purposes is seriously proposed by J. F. McPartlin, as reported in the Pine River Sentinel-Blaze.

This proposal of the present Bemidji city attorney and former member of the legislature from Koochiching county is being received with considerable attention in all northern Minnesota and deserves explanation.

Quite recently the state supreme court gave a decision which held that church property which has always been exempt from taxation could not be so exempt unless it was used for church purposes. Following this line of reasoning Mr. McPartlin has developed the principle that state property, unless used for state purposes or other public uses, should not be held exempt from taxation.

Northern Minnesota counties are literally swamped with state lands held for speculative purposes until there is demand for them for agricultural or other use. These lands Mr. McPartlin would tax for local purposes.

"Of course," said Mr. McPartlin, in a recent interview, "there will be the local taxing bodies such as counties, school districts, townships and other municipal organizations. It seems to me that the logic of the ruling should be to authorize all state land to be taxed except where same is being used for public purpose and these taxes gathered for the benefit of the local taxing bodies."

"Such counties as Koochiching, Itasca, Beltrami, Lake, Cook and Lake of the Woods, as well as St. Louis would be greatly benefited if state lands held by the state for speculative purposes were made subject to taxation for local use."

"The late Samuel Lord while a member of the State Tax Commission often expressed a view that this solution might be reached. Some brave county auditor should place the state lands in his county on the tax list and force the issue. It is worth a lot to know whether or not this principle should not apply to the state as well as to churches."

ENTERTAINING THE FARMERS

THE lunch program of the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, inaugurated some two years ago to gain the attention and goodwill of the farmers and their wives, is achieving a measure of success hardly dreamed of when first instituted.

The Chamber committee this year includes Frank Johnson, Robert Nicholl and Secretary Mrs. C. A. Allbright. The meeting Tuesday on the occasion of the talk given by Prof. Donovan, dairy specialist of the extension department of the University of Minnesota, drew an immense crowd of farmers and farmer ladies. Two more meetings remain in the series and the Chamber of Commerce will again officiate as host at the complimentary luncheons.

When you visit a farmer at his home and meal time is in the offing, it is always customary that an invitation for dinner is forthcoming. That seems to be a tradition among the farm folks. So, in a small way, the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce tries to reciprocate and acts as host and does its best to make the stay of farmers and their wives at a meeting a pleasant and profitable one.

The dairy industry of Crow Wing county is an important one. The creameries of the county are engaged in a profitable business. In fact a good, successful creamery means as much to any community as a factory with smoking chimneys. Monthly cream checks at the Farmers Cooperative creamery in Brainerd run as high as $200 a month. Any new ideas on increasing milk production, bettering stock, improved feeding, etc., means dollars in the pocket of the progressive dairy farmer taking advantage of the same.

WORKING EVERLASTINGLY AT IT

THE DISPATCH notes with pleasure the preparatory work of the various Brainerd committees in making arrangements for the June convention of the Minnesota League of Municipalities at Brainerd and Breezy Point.

This convention brings to Brainerd and our lake country progressive, well read, well informed people of the highest professional and business type who will appreciate every courtesy shown them and who are planning on attending this convention and making it, in many cases, their annual vacation.

Their acquaintance with Brainerd and this lake region will make them steady customers of our lake country. It is worth our while, exceedingly so, to show these convention delegates just what we have up here in the way of recreational features.

An outing at our lakes is real recreation or, playing on the word, a re-creation of body and soul. The lake country is energizing, the pine air is laden with that spirit of rejuvenation so vital to humanity.

AN ACCOUNT CANCELED

NOT many creditors would cancel voluntarily a legitimate account against a creditor as good as the government, but the Great Lakes Towing company has done so. Two of its powerful steel tugs were sent recently by the coast guard from Toledo to West Sister island, breaking heavy ice during part of the voyage, to rescue two half frozen fishermen and two aviators marooned there.

The bill was $300. The company, deciding to bear all the expense, stamped it "paid in full."

The Great Lakes Towing company owns the largest fleet of tugs on fresh water. It is a great corporation—an artificial person in law—but not soulless.—Toledo Blade.

AN ABLE GOVERNOR

GOVERNOR CHRISTIANSON has been a governor for the whole state and has used excellent judgment in all his acts. His veto of several very vital development appropriation measures and his appointments on the "Big Three" and their subsequent czar-like attitude might be questioned as to advisability, but the governor is a man easily approached and these things might be ironed out to the satisfaction of all concerned.—Ely Miner.

CHAUCER S. CHANG, a Chinese student at the Northern Pacific railway shops, addressed the Young People's meeting at the Evangelical church of Pequot on Sunday evening.

H. C. HOTALING, who has served as secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes Association the past five years, was re-elected at the annual meeting held in Minneapolis.

LOPE TENORIA TO FIGHT NEGRO, BRUCE FLOWERS

VISITING CAGERS SHOW SUPERIORITY IN OFFENSE

FLOWERS IS FASTEST COMING FIGHTER IN LIGHTWEIGHT RANKS

New York, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Lope Tenoria of the Philippines and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., negro, will meet in a scheduled 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Flowers is the fastest coming fighter in the lightweight ranks. Tenoria arrived in this country not so long ago from the Philippines and began at once a swift climb to the top of the 15-pound division. The Filipino, recently knocked out Stanislaus Loayza and won from Joe Glick, the Brooklyn junior lightweight, who lost a chance to capture the junior lightweight title by fouling the champion, Tom Morgan. After blazing a trail all the way from San Francisco, Tenoria makes his New York debut tonight confident of reaching the heights sealed by Pancho Villa, who won the world's flyweight title from Jimmy Wilde.

Flowers is an 8 to 5 favorite in the betting.

FIRST NATIONALS AND LIVELY AUTO CO. WIN

Rather listless bowling last evening was indicated in the scores turned in by teams in the city bowling league. The Lively Auto company was able to come out winners in two games out of three from the Bye Clothing company while the First National Bank took three straight from the K. of C.

PERFECTLY WORKED PLAYS AND BURSTS OF SPEED BAFFLE Y. M. C. A. GUARDS

MERICKEL STANDS OUT AS LONE STAR OF EVENING WITH 19 POINTS TO HIS CREDIT

Lead by Merickel, former University of Minnesota cage star, the Deer Creek five scored a 34 to 23 victory over the Brainerd Y. M. C. A. at the local high school gym last evening before a small audience.

Merickel was instrumental in scoring 19 points which brought about certain victory for the visitors. He made eight field baskets and three free throws. He lived up to his advance notices to the letter. On occasions he dribbled the entire length of the floor to sink the cowhide into the Brainerd meshes.

Deer Creek presented possibly the fastest independent team play that has been witnessed here this season. The locals were unable to compete with the many new and improved plays timed to perfection by the visiting aggregation of luminaries in the cage circles of the district.

Welsh, who made his initial appearance with the Brainerd squad for the season, was high point man for the locals. Zakariassen, former college star, received hearty applause for his work at center.

WARNED NOT TO OVER SUPPLY BEEF MARKET

El Paso, Texas, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Cattlemen attending the American Livestock Association convention here were warned by L. C. Britz, president of the organization, not to over supply the beef market.

The year 1927 was the only one of the past six in which cattlemen generally enjoyed a fair and reasonable return on their investment, Britz said.

He urged that present import tariffs on foreign meats be kept at a high standard and that tariff on canned and preserved meats be raised.

Argentine beef was characterized by Britz as the greatest present day menace to the American cattle industry.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

While Tex Rickard and Gene Tunney are enjoying the soothing breezes of Florida and deciding what they will do about gathering in that next $1,000,000, comes a chillier blast from Harrisburg, Pa., where at least one fight fan not only does not consider the heavyweight champion a great fighter, but actually offers to take Gene on at book-reading.

The occasion for Mr. Carupa's evident uneasiness was a recent remark in this column to the effect that no heavyweight of the present year, not excluding Dempsey, has a chance to defeat Tunney next summer.

Borrowing a typewriter, Mr. Carupa of Harrisburg, writes:

"Sir:

You are all wet.

So Jack Dempsey, the only heavyweight champion since Jack Johnson had sunstroke at Havana, hasn't got a chance to beat Bozo Tunney? And neither has anyone else?

Now I'll tell one. Anybody who can knock Bozo out for 21 seconds can beat him anywhere but in Chicago if he is right. Any strong young guy with a punch can beat Mr. Bozo Tunney if he can catch him.

They don't need any elimination tournament and everybody knows it but the wisecracker sports writers. All Mr. Tex Rickard is eliminating is a little of the sucker dough until it's warm enough to stage an outdoor show and then he's giving you birds a chance to keep your typewriter fingers warm in the off season.

If we had a Hornsby case twice a week there'd be a heavyweight fight within six weeks. And if you think nobody has a chance to beat Mr. Stuffed Shirt Tunney, I'll take all the 5 to 1 you personally offer. You can write your own program on his opponent, provided:

- 1.—The opponent is a known heavyweight.
- 2.—He was born within 500 yards of a gas house in a city of over 500,000 and doesn't use perfume.

You will gather I do not think much of Mr. Tunney. You are right.

- 1.—He is not a great boxer.
- 2.—He is not a fighter at all.
- 3.—He keeps a crying towel wet all the time.
- 4.—He will be clobbered with Tommy Burns and Jess Willard when your grandchildren are sitting around the radiator talking about the great ones—Sullivan, Jeffries, Johnson and DEMPSEY.

(Or maybe they are already.)

- 5.—I am not an educated man, but if Mr. Tunney can't find anybody soft enough to fight and wants to have a book-reading contest, I'll take two months to train and astound my friends—and his—by the way I bounce 6-inch words off his knoxes.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) JOE CARUPA."

Lucas Is a Valuable Player

THEY voted Paul Waner the most valuable player in the National league, and Frisch and Hornsby and Root were the runners-up. But there are many shrewd judges who thought that "Red" Lucas of the Reds was about as valuable as anybody when all angles of value are subjected to close scrutiny. Playing with a team that was in last place the first part of the season, Lucas pitched winning ball from the start and batted effectively in the pinches.

When it is considered that those four Red pitching stars and standbys, Donohue, Rixey, Luque and Carl Mays all got off to a bad start last season, showing none of their old-time effectiveness until midsummer, and that Lucas, the Boston castoff and second string pitcher, had to bear the brunt of the enemy batting attack along with Jackie May, also a relief pitcher, his work can well be termed remarkable. These two second string pitchers of 1926 won 33 games for the Reds last season, which was exactly the number won by the former Big Four of the team. Lucas won 18 games and lost 11. As pitcher and pinch hitter he appeared in 80 games and batted 313.

The part played by Lucas the first half of last season is unique in the annals of baseball. His record of the past three years had showed him to be a jack-of-all-trades in baseball and good at none. He started as a pitcher with McGraw in 1923 and was let go with the advice to try for the outfield. The Braves tried him in 1925 as a second baseman and he fell down sadly on that assignment and his batting was also weak. The Reds bought him from Seattle in 1926 and used him as relief pitcher. He won 8 and lost 5. As a pinch hitter he batted a little over 300. The castoff had showed some improvement. His club had been in first place most of the season and finished a close second. But last spring the four great pitchers of the Reds all reported in bad shape. Carl Mays was sick. Donohue had lost his skill. Rixey and Luque were not in condition. And the three batsmen, Hargrave, Breckler and Christensen, who had led the league the year before, all had slumped at the bat. And so it was that Red Lucas was shoved into this batting and pitching breach, and under the strain suddenly flashed into a star. He was born in Columbia, Tenn., twenty-five years ago.

"Red" Lucas.

Blake, Jones Signed up by Chicago Cubs

Chicago—Fred Blake and Percy Jones, Chicago Cubs, pitchers, have signed their 1928 contracts.

The United States will send a lacrosse team to the Olympic games at Amsterdam in 1928. It is the first time in the history of the classic that lacrosse has been included in the program.

Eight men, each more than seventy years old, who give credit to golf for their prolonged life, competed in the annual championship tournament of the Illinois Senior Golf association at Skokie.

Princess Doreen, in 94 races, finished in the money 65 times. She was out in front 34 times, finished second 15 times and third in 17 starts. Her greatest year was 1925, when she earned $69,220.

"Chuck" Werner, track captain at the University of Illinois last year, has been appointed assistant track coach at Illinois to succeed Franklin P. Johnson, recently appointed head coach at Drake university, Des Moines.

It costs $7 a day to maintain the average race horse.

The University of Virginia has made boxing a varsity sport.

May 19 is Derby day and we wonder why they pick a date so close to straw-hat time.

After coaching football at Lawrence college for 12 years, Mark S. Catlin has retired recently.

Winter must seem dull to an umpire who is a bachelor and has nobody to bowl him out.

The Navy thinks the Army football stars play the game too long. Yes, and maybe too well.

Many a golfer who can flip a mashie shot out of a pit onto the green is a whiz on an indoor course.

Bert Ellison, former San Francisco manager, will be manager of the Dallas Texas league club in 1928.

It doesn't help the football team very much to add the anvil to the list of instruments in the varsity band.

There have been 21 world's series played between championship teams of the American and National leagues.

The football team of the University of Buffalo was beaten in every game except one this season, and that ended in a tie.

Another nut that the historians have not cracked is how those great medieval universities flourished without football.

Next to winning it is a great achievement to lose gracefully, and that applies to politics and football as well as to other things.

Through a department of intramural athletics, conducted by Ray Smith, 6,000 students of the University of Minnesota last year took part in sport activities.

Although he is the smallest player on the Patterson Soccer club in Baltimore, George Thompson, 5 feet 2 inches, is leading his team in scoring this season.

Instead of electing a captain each season to lead the University of Washington's basketball team, Coach Hec Edmundson will appoint a floor leader before each game.

World's Meat Consumption

According to an English journal, Americans are the greatest meat eaters of the world with an average per capita consumption of 175 pounds a year. The largest part of this meat is beef, although the English, known as beef eaters, average only 110 pounds of meat. The French eat only half as much as the English, and the consumption is still less in Germany, Austria and Italy.

Football Game Called a Test of Mentality

Football has been made so complicated by recent rule changes and by the modern diversified attack that the game no longer is easy for the college student to master and at the same time keep abreast of his "other studies," says Coach J. F. McKale, for 12 years pilot of the Arizona "Wildcats."

"The day when any husky lad could be an athlete, especially a football player, is gone for good," declares the Arizona mentor.

"It's no cinch job for a student who has other subjects to master to acquire a working knowledge of 20 or more plays with all their variations. College football is growing out of the class where it can be taught easily to students."

The year 1927 was the only one of the past six in which cattlemen generally enjoyed a fair and reasonable return on their investment, Brite said.

He urged that present import tariffs on foreign meats be kept at a high standard and that tariff on canned and preserved meats be raised.

Argentine beef was characterized by Brite as the greatest present day menace to the American cattle industry.

While Tex Rickard and Gene Tunney are enjoying the soothing breezes of Florida and deciding what they will do about gathering in that next $1,000,000, comes a chillier blast from Harrisburg, Pa., where at least one fight fan not only does not consider the heavyweight champion a great fighter, but actually offers to take Gene on at book-reading.

The occasion for Mr. Carupa's evident uneasiness was a recent remark in this column to the effect that no heavyweight of the present year, not excluding Dempsey, has a chance to defeat Tunney next summer.

Borrowing a typewriter, Mr. Carupa of Harrisburg, writes:

"Sir:

You are all wet.

So Jack Dempsey, the only heavyweight champion since Jack Johnson had sunstroke at Havana, hasn't got a chance to beat Bozo Tunney? And neither has anyone else?

Now I'll tell one. Anybody who can knock Bozo out for 21 seconds can beat him anywhere but in Chicago if he is right. Any strong young guy, with a punch can beat Mr. Bozo Tunney if he can catch him.

They don't need any elimination tournament and everybody knows it but the wisened sports writers. All Mr. Tex Rickard is eliminating is a little of the sucker dough until it's warm enough to stage an outdoor show and then he's giving you birds a chance to keep your typewriter fingers warm in the off season.

If we had a Hornsby case twice a week there'd be a heavyweight fight within six weeks. And if you think nobody has a chance to beat Mr. Stuffed Shirt Tunney, I'll take all the 5 to 1 you personally offer. You can write your own program on his opponent, provided:

1.—The opponent is a known heavyweight.

2.—He was born within 500 yards of a gas house in a city of over 500,000 and doesn't use perfume.

You will gather I do not think much of Mr. Tunney. You are right.

1.—He is not a great boxer.

2.—He is not a fighter at all.

3.—He keeps a crying towel wet all the time.

4.—He will be classed with Tommy Burns and Jess Willard when your grandchildren are sitting around the radiator talking about the great ones—Sullivan, Jeffries, Johnson and DEMPSEY.

(Or maybe they are already.)

5.—I am not an educated man, but if Mr. Tunney can't find anybody soft enough to fight and wants to have a bookreading contest, I'll take two months to train and astound my friends—and his—by the way I bounce 6-inch words off his knows.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) JOE CARUPA."

Lucas Is a Valuable Player

THEY voted Paul Waner the most valuable player in the National league, and Frisch and Hornsby and Root were the runners-up. But there are many shrewd judges who thought that "Red" Lucas of the Reds was about as valuable as anybody when all angles of value are subjected to close scrutiny. Playing with a team that was in last place the first part of the season, Lucas pitched winning ball from the start and batted effectively in the pinches.

When it is considered that those four Red pitching stars and standbys, Donohue, Rixey, Luque and Carl Mays all got off to a bad start last season, showing none of their old-time effectiveness until midsummer, and that Lucas, the Boston castoff and second string pitcher, had to bear the brunt of the enemy batting attack along with Jackie Mays, also a relief pitcher, his work can well be termed remarkable. These two second string pitchers of 1926 won 33 games for the Reds last season, which was exactly the number won by the former Big Four of the team. Lucas won 18 games and lost 11. As pitcher and pinch hitter he appeared in 80 games and batted 313.

The part played by Lucas the first half of last season is unique in the annals of baseball. His record of the past three years had showed him to be a jack-of-all-trades in baseball and good at none. He started as a pitcher with McGraw in 1923 and was let go with the advice to try for the outfield. The Braves tried him in 1925 as a second baseman and he fell down sadly on that assignment and his batting was also weak. The Reds bought him from Seattle in 1926 and used him as relief pitcher. He won 8 and lost 5. As a pinch hitter he batted a little over 500. The castoff had showed some improvement. His club had been in first place most of the season and finished a close second. But last spring the four great pitchers of the Reds all were in bad shape. Carl Mays was sick, Donohue had lost his skill, Rixey and Luque were not in condition. And the three batsmen, Hargrave, Bressler and Christensen, who had led the league the year before, all had slumped at the bat. And so it was that Red Lucas was shoved into this batting and pitching breach, and under the strain suddenly flashed into a star. He was born in Columbia, Tenn., twenty-five years ago.

"Red" Lucas.

World's Meat Consumption

According to an English journal, Americans are the greatest meat eaters of the world with an average per capita consumption of 175 pounds a year. The largest part of this meat is beef, although the English, known as beef eaters, average only 110 pounds of meat. The French eat only half as much as the English, and the consumption is still less in Germany, Austria and Italy.

Football Game Called a Test of Mentality

Football has been made so complicated by recent rule changes and by the modern diversified attack that the game no longer is easy for the college student to master and at the same time keep abreast of his "other studies," says Coach J. F. McKale, for 12 years pilot of the Arizona "Wildcats."

"The day when any husky lad could be an athlete, especially a football player, is gone for good," declares the Arizona mentor.

"It's no cinch job for a student who has other subjects to master to acquire a working knowledge of 20 or more plays with all their variations."

"College football is growing out of the class where it can be taught easily to students."

SAFETY SLOGANS FOR MOTORISTS

Kansas City, Kans., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Safety slogans for motorists prepared by Del Lawhe, city engineer, and posted in conspicuous places were as follows:

Keep your hands on the wheel—let your girl hug herself.

Don't try to scare locomotives with your horn.

Death is so permanent—take a minute or two at those dangerous railroad crossings.

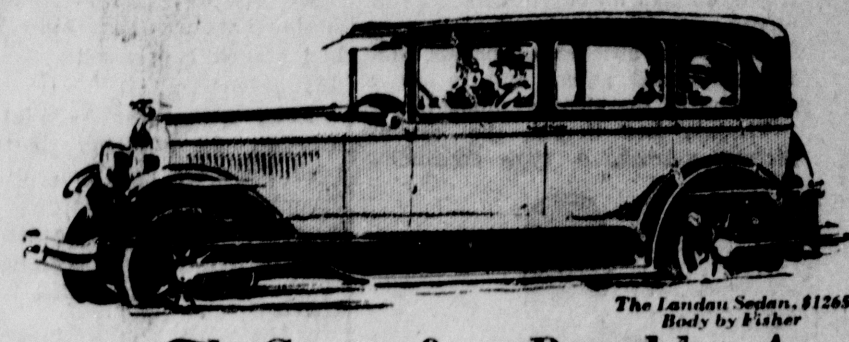

Tragedy in seven words: Speed increases, breath ceases, rest in pieces.

Horse sense as well as horsepower should enter into the operation of motor vehicles.

Live to ride another day by obeying signs—they mean what they say. The three H's—hooch—hugging—haste.

There is a possibility that youth will be stressed even in a season where the formal note is used to denote all that is chic. Simplicity in the costumes, while not always the dominant note, is one that is not being neglected for the person who wears and looks best in the frock of youthful charm and simplicity.

Black velvet happens to be one of the season's favorite fabrics. It appears in many costumes for both formal and informal appearances. There are dresses of black velvet that spell almost severe outlines and the simplest of details in the matter of trimming. And there are, too, costumes of black velvet that may be seen for the most formal of parties. Rhinestones, laces and appliques do their utmost to make effective the formal frock of black velvet.

The youthful note that is so very smartly inspired in many of the new frocks obtains its charm through simplicity of line and of trimming. There is an absence of panels, side fullnesses and points and rather a stressing of the slender silhouette.

In the picture "No Place to Go," Miss Corbin wears this costume as well as several others indicating the new mode in winter clothes.

HEAVY OVERHEAD IN BANDIT WORK MADE IT UNPROFITABLE

Minneapolis, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Heavy overhead made the bandit business unprofitable, according to the youngest of three persons held by police here today.

A youth, 17, told police, after he surrendered voluntarily that in seven filling station holdups less than $20 per job was realized as loot. There were no dividends realized, the youth told police, because the money stolen had to be used to make payments on the gang's auto.

Statements of the youth, who said he was "look-out" man for the bandits, resulted in the arrest of Louis Hacjel, 31, and Chester Salisbury, 19.

ANOTHER BOMB

Chicago, Jan. 27.—(UP)—As Chicago today prepared to start one of the most extensive hunts for perpetrators of bomb outrages in the city's history, racketeers expressed their contempt for the search by another bombing.

A bomb was thrown in the doorway of a shoe repair shop less than a block away from the home of Dr. William Reid, whose home was bombed yesterday.

The bomb was directed at J. Kustczyk, who said he recently had been threatened with violence if he did not join a shoe repairers' association. Damage was slight.

There were no clues to the persons who yesterday threw bombs at the homes of Charles Fitzmorris, city controller, and Dr. Reid. It was believed those two bombings had come as gangster expressions of hatred against the vice-campaign of Mayor William Hale Thompson.

2 MEN EXECUTED FOR MURDER OF FOOTBALL PLAYER

Cardiff, Wales, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Two men were executed today for the murder of David Lewis, a Rugby football player and boxer.

Daniel Driscoll and Edward Rowlands were sent to their deaths at 8 A. M. They were convicted of slashing the throat of the athlete.

Rowlands' brother, John, was found insane, shortly before the execution and detained at Broadmore asylum.

The two Rowlands and Driscoll were charged with killing Lewis with his own knife. The defense contentions was that John Rowlands had struck Lewis with the knife in self defense.

Four men went to trial for the murder. In addition to the Rowland Brothers and Driscoll William Joseph Price was charged with the murder. Price was acquitted at the trial which ended December 2.

90 Days in Workhouse for Stealing Pound of Cheese

St. Paul, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Arthur Huss, 44, admitted in police court today that he stole a piece of cheese, and was sentenced to the workhouse for 90 days.

Huss said his craving for the creamery product was too great for him to pass up a wagon carrying the cheese—a piece weighing less than a pound.

OF SCHOOL DISTRICT

Cromwell, Minn., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Confessions purporting to show that he stole $16,000 from the State Bank of Cromwell were obtained from N. A. Houck, cashier, following his arrest on charges of embezzlement here late yesterday, authorities said.

The specific charge against Houck is that of appropriating to his own use $3,000 from the funds of a school district. The date of the alleged offense was fixed at Jan. 13.

According to authorities, Houck, following his arrest, confessed to thefts which will aggregate $16,000, part of which authorities say he admitted taking partly for his own use through forged notes.

The bank closed its doors Tuesday and Houck's arrest followed an investigation into the institution's financial condition. The bank when it closed had deposits of $82,000 and capital of $16,000.

Cromwell is in Carlton county.

IT TAKES ALL-BRAN TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

More and more people are eating bran for "health's sake" these days. And it's a fine thing. But not everybody realizes what a difference there is in so-called "brans." Doctors say it takes 100% bran to supply enough roughage to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only be partly effective.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. It does a work part-bran products cannot hope to equal. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN often. With milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's though—in the red-and-green package. Use it in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Country Bank Closed

Glyndon, Minn., Jan. 27.—(UP)—The State Bank of Glyndon closed its doors today.

Poor paper and lack of reserve were given as the cause.

The bank had a capital of $10,000 and deposits of $99,000.

St. Paul, Jan. 27.—(UP)—A. J. Veigel, state commissioner of banking, today was informed of the closing of the State Bank of Glyndon, Clay county.

OF SCHOOL DISTRICT

Cromwell, Minn., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Confessions purporting to show that he stole $16,000 from the State Bank of Cromwell were obtained from N. A. Houck, cashier, following his arrest on charges of embezzlement here late yesterday, authorities said.

The specific charge against Houck is that of appropriating to his own use $3,000 from the funds of a school district. The date of the alleged offense was fixed at Jan. 13.

According to authorities, Houck, following his arrest, confessed to thefts which will aggregate $16,000, part of which authorities say he admitted taking partly for his own use through forged notes.

The bank closed its doors Tuesday and Houck's arrest followed an investigation into the institution's financial condition. The bank when it closed had deposits of $82,000 and capital of $10,000.

Cromwell is in Carlton county.

Stratton led a prayer in the chapel, but was not asked to speak. He was a professor at Baylor many years ago. The New York pastor registered at a local hotel incognito last night. He is on his way to San Jose, Calif., to conduct a revival and will return to

IT TAKES ALL-BRAN TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

More and more people are eating bran for "health's sake" these days. And it's a fine thing. But not everybody realizes what a difference there is in so-called "brans." Doctors say it takes 100% bran to supply enough roughage to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only be partly effective.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. It does a work part-bran products cannot hope to equal. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN often. With milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's though—in the red-and-green package. Use it in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

OUTLINES TENTATIVE CONVENTION PLANS

Committees Appointed to Insure Success of State Meet in Brainerd

JUNE 13, 14, 15

League of Minnesota Municipalities to be Accorded District Wide Welcome

Three delightful days at Brainerd and Breezy Point, June 13, 14, and 15 are in store for the members of The League of Minnesota Municipalities who will make Brainerd their convention city for the year 1928.

Determined to make this city the leading convention city in the northwest each member of the city council will work for the complete success of the convention.

Committees were appointed at a recent meeting of the leaders in the convention plans here this week and a tentative program outlined, which included the following plans:

Tuesday, June 13

Registration and morning session at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Iron Exchange building.

Noon lunch at U. C. T. auditorium, with local entertainment.

Afternoon session at Iron Exchange hall.

In the evening there will be a band concert, water sports and exhibitions, and a dance at Lum Park.

Wednesday, June 14

Morning session at Iron Exchange hall or high school auditorium, with a noon lunch at the U. C. T. auditorium, with entertainment.

Afternoon session at Iron Exchange hall, or high school auditorium until 4 p. m. when the delegates will be taken by cars to Breezy Point via Crosby and Ironton.

Banquet at Breezy Point at 7 p. m. with program and dance following.

Thursday, June 15

Meetings held at Breezy Point lodge.

The following committees have been appointed by Mayor F. E. Little:

Banquet—V. F. Anderson, W. D. McKay, D. H. Fullerton.

Hotels—R. H. Paine and F. E. Little.

Transportation—M. Anderson and W. J. Hall.

Entertainment—V. F. Anderson, W. D. McKay, M. Anderson and D. H. Fullerton.

Meeting Places—W. J. Hall and F. E. Little.

Breezy Point has made a very fine offer, showing their cooperation by furnishing a banquet rate of $1.50 a plate and lodging for the night at $1.50 per person in the hotel rooms or individual cabins.

The banquet committee intends later to call for bids from various church organizations and others, to furnish the noon luncheons at the U. C. T. auditorium.

There will be prominent speakers here for the convention.

The convention committee appointed by the council, is as follows: F. E. Little, chairman, D. H. Fullerton, V. F. Anderson, R. H. Paine, W. J. Hall, M. Anderson, W. D. McKay.

A. B. SMITH, N. P. PASSENGER TRAFFIC MANAGER, TO RETIRE

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Retirement of A. B. Smith, passenger traffic manager of the Northern Pacific railroad, effective Feb. 1, has been announced here.

He has been connected with railroad work for 45 years and held executive positions with the Northern Pacific, the Burlington and the New Haven roads.

Smith's retirement was at his own request. He will be succeeded by E. E. Nelson, assistant passenger traffic manager.

GASOLINE TANK EXPLOSION CAUSES CLARA CITY FIRE

Clara City, Minn., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Explosion of a gasoline tank in a restaurant here Thursday was believed the cause of a fire which destroyed four business places at a loss of about $25,000 and resulted in injuries to two persons.

One of the injured, Anthony Risher, who worked in the restaurant, was taken to a hospital where his condition was reported as very serious.

The one story building, in which the business establishments were located, was destroyed by the fire.

BUILDING, LOAN HEAD HONORED

S. R. Adair Presented With Gavel Composed of Wood From 46 Homes

PRaised BY MEMBERS

Association Has Shown Remarkable Advancement Since Organization

S. R. Adair, president of the Brainerd Building and Loan Association was presented with a gavel expressing the sentiments of the members at the annual meeting of the association last evening.

The gavel is composed of 46 pieces of wood taken from the first 46 homes financed by the association. It was originally made and designed by C. H. Paine and finished by Peter Ulfseth.

In his presentation talk, Elmer Dahl, first vice president of the association paid tribute to the common sense, fairness and good business judgment exercised by the president Mr. Adair in conducting meetings of the association.

"There is, however," said Mr. Dahl, "one thing lacking and that is a gavel. The members of the association are proud to give it to you for its intrinsic value in commemorating the successful growth of the association and the financial of 46 homes."

Mr. Adair in receiving the gavel stated that he appreciated the token of sentiment expressed in the gavel and that it was one of the finest mementoes he had ever received. He thanked the members for their support to the association and their faith in him and the officers.

The three directors whose term expired were reelected as follows: John Carlson, Wm. Nelson, R. L. Geist.

The directors then went into session and elected the following officers:

President—S. R. Adair.

First Vice President—Elmer Dahl.

Second Vice President—John Carlson.

Secretary—Wm. Nelson.

Treasurer—H. P. Dunn.

President Adair submitted the following annual report:

"We meet tonight to review the 5th annual report of our association. It is with a great deal of pleasure that I call your attention to this report, showing a dividend for the year 1927 of 7 percent. This shows the same steady, conservative increase as does our resources, which have now reached the amount of $89,433.91.

"Another gratifying thing has been the steady increase of our contingent or emergency fund. This fund is established to take care of any possible loss and we now have in reserve for this purpose $697.09.

"Another feature worthy of your attention is the steady decrease in the cost of operation. Starting at 95-100 of 1 percent, it has been reduced to 1-5 of 1 percent. This, I think, is worthy of more than passing notice.

"One of the important duties of the association tonight is the election of three directors for a term of 3 years. The terms of the following directors expire: John Carlson, Wm. Nelson, and R. L. Geist. The remaining directors are H. P. Dunn, E. O. Webb, Elmer Dahl, J. A.

Krause, L. F. Hough and S. R. Adair.

"I wish at this time to thank all of the directors for their hearty co-operation and great interest and care in the consideration of the association's business.

"Our home owners have now reached the number of 49. These 49 home owners represent a big asset to our city and I am sure it is a pleasure for each of you to be able to help make Brainerd a city of home-owners.

"I have been asked by a few people why the association shows in its reports an item of borrowed money. This is now, and has always been, the policy of the board of directors, for the following reason:

"Owing to the nature of the business of our association our income at this time is about $800.00 per month, which we can apply on our indebtedness and by so doing keep every dollar of our funds working and earning all the time. If we did not have borrowed money we would have to carry our monthly income until a new loan was placed, or else use it to pay off some of our paid up stock, which we think would be very unsatisfactory to our stockholders."

SNOWSHOES ARE POPULAR

E. H. Rhodes, District Forest Ranger Does Timber Estimating

Where men meet the demands of a severe winter with a grin, where practically all work and experimental research observation is done on snowshoes, and their pleasure comes from the great out of doors—the State Forestry Camp at Pine Island, located 15 miles northwest of Big Falls, Minn., in Koochiching county.

Among the eleven men in camp who enjoy their work, their snowbound habitation, and their own company is E. H. Rhodes, district forest ranger for this district who will remain in that location doing timber estimating for the government until the spring breakup.

The men are divided into crews of two and they average from six to twelve miles per day on a trip their work includes the estimating of merchantable timber, the logging factors such as the location, how timber will go out and the best cutting system.

Reproduction (young timber) is placed in classes, and number per acre noted. One half acre plots are taken at intervals of 130 paces, eight plots per forty acres. Estimate is taken from these plots.

Note is also taken of the distance from town, railway, highways, school, postoffice and store, whether land is adapted to agricultural purposes or not.

These are just a few of the important things which the men are doing at the camp.

Honest Jane and Banknotes

By SYBIL GRAY

(Copyright.)

JANE BAIRD, very, very far from home—her home being in the Middle West—was standing at the banking department of the American Express company in London cashing at most the last check in her book.

Jane was a hard hard-working schoolteacher and had saved all through the winter months in order to go on a wild burst of travel and see a bit more of the world than her own immediate vicinity. She had better open the purse strings with an extravagant gesture and payed for one of those well-advertised and wonderfully enjoyable cheap trips to Europe. And every minute had been a joy.

And now as she pushed her check across the wide counter and waited for her English money, which she had not got very familiar with, she stooped and picked up a few white papers that lay on the floor at her feet. She thrust them in her bag so that anyone watching her would think she had dropped them. Jane didn't want anyone to think her so curious about papers lying on the floor because she had been the recipient of much chaff about this habit of hers. She could hardly pass a bit of paper on the street without giving it a poke with her umbrella to see what it might be.

Having got her money from the clerk she turned and sat down at one of the many desks provided for the use of American travelers and had a look at the papers she had picked up.

"Oh," she gasped. "It's money. Some one has lost all this. Five twenty-pound notes! Imagine anyone having so much change and dropping it about like that. Let's see—that is five hundred dollars in American money. Wouldn't I like to go out into Regent street and spend a lot of it on clothes!" Jane looked forlornly down at her well-worn suit but got up from the desk and went over to the clerk at the banking department.

"I picked this up on the floor," she said. "Oh, I say, Miss Baird, that was a find. I've no doubt the person who lost it will give you a reward. I'll take down your present address and if no one claims it I will let you know."

A day or two later she called in at the office to ask if anyone had come for the lost bank notes and was handed an envelope which she opened while the interested clerk looked on.

There was slight disappointment in Jane's face as she read the brief letter but a smile, too, played about her mouth.

"The old gentleman who lost that money wants to take me out to dinner," she confided with American frankness to the clerk. "What does he—a look like? Do you think I should go?"

"Certainly," laughed the clerk, "the old gentleman is Mr. Ludlow. He has pots and pots of money so you may be in for a reward."

Jane went back to her hotel but stopped at the lovely new windows of Swan and Edgar and saw therein a beautiful frock that seemed to beckon her inside the shop. She figured swiftly, her head cocked to one side, then went in.

"I hadn't a single dud to go to dinner with anyone in," she told her thrifty conscience.

Next evening it was a particularly charming Jane who went down to meet the old gentleman—Mr. Ludlow—whose invitation she had accepted. He had said in his letter that he would bring another lady along so that she had not hesitated to meet him.

The gentleman who rose to greet her was not old and he was extremely good to look at.

"Miss Baird—please forgive my telling you I was an old gentleman. I was afraid you wouldn't come if I didn't resort to subterfuge. Mother," he said, and introduced Jane to the little lady who had sat so quietly amused at the unusual position her son had brought about.

"It was very sweet of you to come, Miss Baird. As a matter of fact, my son and I have been just a wee bit homesome here in London. We're all the way from Denver."

"Mother, I'll hop off and get seats for a show while you two get a bit acquainted and look up some place for dinner," said the son, and, not waiting for any argument, he was off.

"Do you know," confided Mrs. Ludlow, "I am truly glad to meet you—you don't know how many girls are hanging about that boy of mine simply because he has money—it's about all some girls think of."

"I have to think of it most of the time," laughed Jane. "My small amount gives me more trouble than if I had a lot. I just have about enough to fling home on—but I've had one grand and glorious time spending the little I had."

Mrs. Ludlow smiled knowingly. She knew, without being told, that her son would in the near future, give this lovely and honest young lady all that she wanted of travel. And for once she was glad that her boy was some what careless about dropping bank notes.

School supplies from this country are being adopted in the Dutch West Indies.

Intentions Uncertain

Marion—Weren't you embarrassed when young Doctor Jones asked you for your hand?

Maudie—Indeed I was. I didn't know whether he wanted to take me or my pulse.—Stray Stories.

The Wily Waiter

"If you've spotted the man who stole your car, why don't you get it back?"

"I'm waiting for him to put on a new set of tires."

TOO SLOW

He—Too slow—I use the flying machine in crossing the river every morning.

Words and Music

We see, as years slip on their way,
A change in song and story.
The song is mostly jolly today—
So is the oratory.

According to the Ritual

Frances—Everything went along at the Filson wedding until the minister asked the bride to obey her husband.

Frank—And then what?
Frances—She said: "Do you think I'm crazy?" and the groom answered: "I do."

One Wish in Reserve

Marie—If you could have two wishes what would they be?

Viola—Well, I'd wish for a husband.

Marie—That's one.

Viola—And then I'd save the other until I saw how he turned out.

For Granted

The dear old lady was late at church, and entered as the small congregation was rising to sing.

"Pleuse," she said with a sweet smile, "don't get up on my account."

Knew What It Meant

Gibbs—My wife and I agree on everything.

Dibbs—Have you no opinions of your own?

Bluff

A sound rule to follow is never to bluff unless you've something to bluff with. Then you needn't.

Jane went back to her hotel but stopped at the lovely new windows of Swan and Edgar and saw therein a beautiful frock that seemed to beckon her inside the shop. She figured swiftly, her head cocked to one side, then went in.

"I hadn't a single duff to go to dinner with anyone in," she told her thrifty conscience.

Next evening it was a particularly charming Jane who went down to meet the old gentleman—Mr. Ludlow—whose invitation she had accepted. He had said in his letter that he would bring another lady along so that she had not hesitated to meet him.

The gentleman who rose to greet her was not old and he was extremely good to look at.

"Miss Baird—please forgive my telling you I was an old gentleman. I was afraid you wouldn't come if I didn't resort to subterfuge. Mother," he said, and introduced Jane to the little lady who had sat so quietly amused at the unusual position her son had brought about.

"It was very sweet of you to come, Miss Baird. As a matter of fact, my son and I have been just a wee bit homesome here in London. We're all the way from Denver."

"Mother, I'll hop off and get seats for a show while you two get a bit acquainted and look up some place for dinner," said the son, and not waiting for any argument, he was off.

"Do you know," confided Mrs. Ludlow, "I am truly glad to meet you—you don't know how many girls are hanging about that boy of mine simply because he has money—it's about all some girls think of."

"I have to think of it most of the time," laughed Jane. "My small amount gives me more trouble than if I had a lot. I just have about enough to limp home on—but I've had one grand and glorious time spending the little I had."

Mrs. Ludlow smiled knowingly. She knew, without being told, that her son would in the near future, give this lovely and honest young lady all that she wanted of travel. And for once she was glad that her boy was somewhat careless about dropping bank notes.

School supplies from this country are being adopted in the Dutch West Indies.

Intentions Uncertain

Marion—Weren't you embarrassed when young Doctor Jones asked you for your hand?

Maudie—Indeed I was. I didn't know whether he wanted to take me or my pulse.—Stray Stories.

The Wily Waiter

"If you've spotted the man who stole your car, why don't you get it back?"

"I'm waiting for him to put on a new set of tires."

TOO SLOW

He—Too slow—I use the flying machine in crossing the river every morning.

Words and Music

We see, as years slip on their way, A change in song and story. The song is mostly jazz today—So is the oratory.

According to the Ritual

Frances—Everything went along at the Elson wedding until the minister asked the bride to obey her husband.

Frank—And then what? Frances—She said: "Do you think I'm crazy?" and the groom answered: "I do."

One Wish in Reserve

Marie—If you could have two wishes what would they be? Viola—Well, I'd wish for a husband. Marie—That's one. Viola—And then I'd save the other until I saw how he turned out.

For Granted

The dear old lady was late at church, and entered as the small congregation was rising to sing. "Please," she said with a sweet smile, "don't get up on my account."

Knew What It Meant

Gibbs—My wife and I agree on everything. Dibbs—Have you no opinions of your own?

Bluff

A sound rule to follow is never to bluff unless you've something to bluff with. Then you needn't.

"Myskinwas a sight"

"I couldn't look people in the face. I was so ashamed of my skin! It was always blotched with pimples and blackheads and at times itched terribly. I had tried everything and was so discouraged that I couldn't bring myself to take hope in anything. You can imagine my surprise therefore when one application of Rowles Menthio Sulphur almost completely cleared my skin. I could have danced with joy! In a short time you wouldn't know my skin—it was so clear, so soft and white."

Thousands of people are discovering that there is a remedy for skin trouble—even fiery, itching eczema! It's the magical combination of sulphur and ment
